FRIDAY, JAN. 16, 1891.

VALEDICTORY.

It is not without feelings of regret that we issue the last number of THE QU'APPELLE PROGRESS under the present management. A little over five years ago we brought a printing plant to the town of Qu'Appelle and established THE PROGRESS under auspicious circumstances. It was the autumn after Riel's Saskatchewan rebellion, and generally there was no lack of enterprise, and the business was a success from the start. Beginning with a very small capital we gradually but slowly increased our plant and erected premises to avoid heavy rents. From a business point of view, up to a certain time we were content to work along though slowly, but it must be admitted our ambition is such that we found ourself hampered by the fact that there was not sufficient scope for the style of newspaper which we desire to control. From this fact, up to about a year ago, a greater expense was put upon THE PROGRESS than was warranted by the circumstances, in the hope that a general newspaper for the Territories could be maintained in a town where a publication of nothing more than a local character was looked for. Realizing this stern fact we concluded to dispose of the business and seek a wider field. We do not wish in any sense to disparage the business to be done, far we honestly transfer it, knowing that it can be made to pay under certain conditions. Such being the case we trust that the town of Qu'Appelle will ever have a newspaper, and give it an increasing patronage that it may flourish, and the town grow with an abounding prosperity.

We take a retrospective view of the political career of THE PROGRESS with a great deal of satisfaction. In the first few months of our existence the Northwest witnessed a struggle between Mr. Dewdney and an almost universal prejudice against his administration of Territorial affairs as Lieutenant-Governor and Indian Commissioner. This prejudice arose from ignorance of the true inwardness of a combination of circumstances which appeared unfavorable to him. Having informed ourselves of the true facts of the case, we felt it to be a simple matter of justice to take a stand favorable to Mr. Dewdney, and we well remember that many who desired to see THE PROGRESS turn out a success, said to us privately that we were making a great mistake in doing so. We have also a vivid recollection that almost every newspaper in the Territories was bitter in its denunciations of Mr. Dewdney, but we have since seen that those papers which were then the loudest in their condemnation both him and us, have at times been the most sympathetic in his praise. In a little over two years we saw such a revulsion of feeling that when Mr. Dewdney was spoken of as Minister of the Interior, there was not a paper in the Territories but approved of the appointment, and he was elected by acclamation for East Assiniboia. We do not possess the sublime audacity to claim that such revulsion of feeling took place because THE PROGRESS defended him against the wholesale abuse of which he was the victim two short years before. But we refer to it as an instance of that prudent foresight and courage of conviction which has characterized our editorial utterances. At that time we spoke fearlessly against great odds, and had the satisfaction in that short time to see our opinions prevail. We will not refer to the many other questions with regard to which we stood on the right side, suffice it to say that there has not been a question of public interest in the Territories with respect to which we have given an unsound sound. We have not, as many assert, merely followed one idea or principle, but have never kept silent on any question of public importance to the Northwest. We now refer to the subject of Prohibition. We justly hold this to be the grandest political principle of this age. Men will waste time and money in wrangling over different modes of raising the public revenue, and other questions, which are really after all only matters of opinion. Every intelligent man will admit that in principle there is very little or no difference between the Conservative and Liberal parties of the Dominion. It is only the difference of men and methods of arriving at the same end. But the question of Prohibition is one not of opinion merely, but one which its advocates justly claim has only one right side, and opposition to it is a wrong to the individual, the community and the nation. Holding this principle dear, we did nothing more than our duty when we made as strong a stand as we did in its support. The people of the Territories at the present time are responsible for its future. Will they place themselves in the position of consenting parties to the legalization of the accursed drink traffic? In this connection the question may be asked why do we give up the fight and allow THE PROGRESS to pass into other hands, or in other words, have we allowed ourselves to be bought off? We reply simply that business considerations, as already explained, have led us to vacate the editorial chair of THE PROGRESS. What is in the future,

Providence only knows and time alone can reveal. Personally we have only this much more to say at present; we will never consent to be placed in a position that will compromise our principles.

To the many friends who have given us their support we bid a regretful adieu, trusting that prosperity may attend them, and that truth and right principles may prevail.

THE 1, 2, 3, 4, 5.

The Canadian Fireside Weekly is out with another grand prize competition to increase its circulation, in which 300 valuable prizes are offered. This is no puzzle or trick, and requires no searching in dictionaries or books of any kind. It is ingenious but simple, and has never before been offered by any paper. A child of eight may win as easily as a college professor. Among the prizes are bicycles, tricycles, $100 cash, furniture, silverware, watches, jewelry, summer tours—prizes for men, women, boys and girls, 300 in all. Send at once 5 cents for sample copy with full particulars and list of prizes to 9 Adelaide St. W., Toronto, Ont.

SOMETHING WORTH TRYING FOR $1000.00 IN GOLD.

This is what "The Ladies' Bazar" will give to the person sending them the largest number of sentences constructed from words contained in the quotation, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do to you do even so to them." Every week during the contest they will give a "Handsome Family Sewing Machine" valued at $50.00, to the person sending them the largest number of sentences that week. If preferred they will give the winner a Solid Gold Watch instead of the Sewing Machine. Special prizes for Boys and Girls.

They do not offer impossibilities. The above will be carried out to the letter. Everyone competing will have an equal chance. No dictionary required in this competition.

Send 10c. for sample copy of "The Ladies' Bazar" and full instructions. THE LADIES' BAZAR, 4 Adelaide Street East, Toronto.

Sir Philip Miller, the great English horticulturalist, writing in 1740, says: "The best method to have Cabbages good is to procure fresh seed from abroad every year, for it is apt to degenerate in England in a few years."

The above is a simple illustration of the fact that the best seeds will rapidly degenerate under unfavorable conditions. The wise will take heed, therefore, and buy their seeds of D. M. Ferry & Co., Windsor, Ontario, whose world wide reputation as the best and most reliable, as well as the most extensive seed growers and dealers, is due to the fact that they take advantage of every circumstance of climate, soil, methods of culture, selections, of seeds, plants, etc., to procure the best possible seeds and keep them up to that high standard.

Send your name to the firm's address, and you will receive a copy of their Seed Annual for 1891 free.

—Hood's Catechism for 1891 is out and it is certainly a beautiful production of the lithographer's and printer's arts. The subject represents for children play in musical instruments, and the positions, expressions, coloring and general finish make a most charming picture. But we are apprehensive it might be seen. Ask your druggist for Hood's Catechism, or send us your order for a copy or ten copies for free, to C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Correspondence.

Our columns are open to all for the discussion of public questions. Personal attacks will not be permitted. We do not hold ourselves responsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

Qu'Appelle, Jan. 9th, 1891.

To the Editor of THE PROGRESS.

SIR:—I will not trespass much on your space as I am sure your readers will be heartily sick of the controversy with Mr. Ferry, that has been going on so long. But Mr. Ferry's letter in this week's issue demands just a few words of answer.

He accuses me of not giving the "context" of an extract I gave from his former letter. Considering that the quotation I did give occupied nearly as far as I can remember, a quarter of a column in print, it is rather unreasonable to complain that I did not give the "context." Would he have had me reprint the whole letter?

Mr. Ferry occupied nearly two columns in asking me in various forms, "What was my object in writing to the Bishop of Nova Scotia?" and indulging in a variety of personal remarks for my having dared to do so. My answer is simple. It was to ascertain the accuracy or otherwise of Mr. Ferry's statement. I consider that the results proved that I was amply justified in so doing. With any result, as to the friendship between Mr. Gelling and Mr. Ferry, I had certainly nothing whatever to do.

The Bishop of Nova Scotia—an extract from a paper concerning whom Mr. Ferry gave your readers in order to prejudice them—has had nothing whatever to do with the case. I told your readers that he was ill and he had been unable to see or to answer my letter.

Mr. Ferry again repeats that he "brought on this controversy." This I distinctly deny. The origin of it was a lecture given by Mr. Ferry called "Broken Links in the Apostolic Succession," or something of that kind. Ha Mr. Ferry contented himself with proving the validity of his own Orders to his people. I should have said nothing; but this, with its many and gross misstatements of what we hold, irrelevant statements, as in the extract he gives from the Protestant Episcopal Layman's had book—which has nothing whatever to do with the doctrine—was a gratuitous challenge to us.

Mr. Ferry suggests a discussion on a public platform. I would certainly decline any such discussion with Mr. Ferry. If I ever had such a discussion I would prefer having some one to argue with more competent to deal with the subject in a rational manner.

I am yours faithfully,
ADELBERT,
Bishop of Qu'Appelle.

Qu'Appelle, Jan. 9th, 1891.

To the Editor of THE PROGRESS.

SIR:—Hearing that you are about to vacate the editorial chair of the "QU'APPELLE PROGRESS," I write to thank you for the courteous and ready manner in which you have always received communications from me, and for the kindness with which you have always allowed us to use your columns as an advertising medium free of cost for any entertainment, etc., in connection with the English-Speaking. And if some item of news has not been sent to you that you might reasonably have expected from me, believe me it was through no intentional neglect or discourtesy, but merely through forgetfulness. I have in fact's given you my explanation of having had for a number of the recent past, a number of the following week having been very busy for me, and then Christmas put it out of my mind completely. As far as the other papers are concerned, of course they hear their special correspondents and receive their items of news quite independently of me.

Yours truly,
HENRY S. AKERQUIST.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

"A FREE TRIP AROUND THE WORLD"

The absorbing topic of the day is a Free Trip Around the World, offered by "The Home Fascinator," Pub. Co., to the person sending the largest number of words constructed from letters contained in the sentence "GOD SAVE THE QUEEN," and found in either Webster's or Worcester's Dictionary. The publishers have arranged with the C. P. R. General Pass Agent, Mr. D. McNeill, for the trip by their new palatial steamer, leaving on its famous globe-circling excursion about March 15th next. Also in order of merit, additional prizes of: A free trip to Florida; Silver Tea Sets, Sewing Machines, Ladies' or Gent's 14k. Gold Watch, etc. Every one whose list contains not less than twenty-five words will receive a prize. Enclose them $1.00 to pay for a grand Premium Catalogue, Complete Rules, and a year's subscription to their beautifully illustrated family story paper. As the successful Competitor may not care to make the extensive trip offered, the publishers offer the option of $1,000 in cash. Contest is open to any person in Canada or the United States. Lists received not later than February 10th.

Address "The Home Fascinator," Montreal, Quebec.

A NOVEL OFFER.

We note that the publishers of THE DOMINION ILLUSTRATED have originated a plan by which over $2,000 worth of prizes are to be distributed among the subscribers to that paper, subject to their correctly answering simple questions on the current contents of each number. We learn that the first prize will be $750 in gold, the second a Heintzman piano worth $600 and that the rest of the many prizes in the competition will be of an unusually costly and valuable nature.

The are also offering a second series of prizes for the best specimen of type-writing, open to typewriters all over the world.

We have very much pleasure in noting such liberal offers from our leading illustrated journal, and hope that all our readers will take advantage of them.

We understand that on receipt of 12 cents in stamps the publishers of THE DOMINION ILLUSTRATED (Subston Litho. & Pub. Co., Montreal) and send a sample copy of that journal with full particulars of the plan.

Sam Jones on the Bloody Shirt.

I want to suggest a word to the law and order lovers, said Sam Jones recently. You are no political organization. If you were a lot of Democrats you could get me to speak for you to save my life (laughter). If you were a lot of Republicans you could not have me to talk for you. But the time has come when you Democrats and Republicans have got to do something better than shaking rebel flags and passing the ground like mad bulls. It is time to say that the bloody shirt is dead. It is a talk about the old rebel flag and the ghost of Jeff Davis, and having 500 men here saw the air and bull. It is just like sticking a bullet in a dead bull, I tell you, the sooner the better. And they talk about the bloody shirt when it is nothing but an old gown with poke holes in it. "Blast the bloody shirt," said grand people now, and there are 100,000 of you who are sorry they ever fired the second old flag—the Stars and Stripes. Let my precious war's arm and cannons and muskets and Georgia, Florida, Carolina, Alabama and the other southern states will never be so many young men as they state in the north—readers City Herald.

On one point, at least, the Democratic and Prohibition parties are united--putting down whisky. They differ only on the question of method. --People.

—The following from the Messenger and Visitor, of St. John, N. B., will make interesting reading at the present time:

The good people of Woodstock, Ontario, seem to have thought the millennium was beginning to dawn
on Christmas day, when, in old St.
Paul's Episcopal church, the rector,
Rural Dean Wade, invited Dr. Mc-Mullin, of the Presbyterian church,
to address the congregation, and Dr.
McMullin responded, preaching
from the text, "For unto us a child is born, unto us a Son is given, and the government shall be upon His shoulders, and His name shall be called Wonderful," etc. A Woodstock paper refers to the occurrence at some length and closes with saying:

We congratulate Dean Wade and Dr. McMullin on the object lesson of this Christmas day in old St.
Paul's. In it they are typical of the union of hearts and of aims, which is the most hopeful sign in the life of the churches to-day, when Christianity is being put to the severest test by those who assail its foundations and question its power to grapple with the problems and evils of modern life.

W. E. BROWN, Secy.

THUS FAR—NO FARTHER.

The Republican party is no longer the party of moral ideas, the Democratic party is opposed to prohibition, but the Prohibition party stands for the home and against the saloon.

The True Protection Party.

The question of free trade or protection
may feel some Prohibitionists for awhile, but they are used to bugaboos of that kind. The older men among them remember that when the anti-slavery question was being pushed to the front the leaders of the Whig party trotted out
"protection free trade" in order to head off the movement then, and whenever the Republican party is sorely pressed, it either waves the bloody shirt or cries free trade. The Prohibition party is in favor of protection for protection only; it believes in the reduction of the tariff as rapidly as it can be reduced without lowering the wages of American workmen or without preventing American manufacturers from competing successfully with their rivals across the water. But this question will be so thoroughly discussed between now and November next that we expect to hear of votes from this cause.
The Prohibition party is the true protection party. It means to protect the home, the health, and the morals of the country.
—Dr. Funk in Epoca.

LIE LOW, OLD PARTIES!

The Mother of Crime.

M. Marbet in a recent communication to the Paris academy of medicine states that after examining 3000 convicted criminals he found that of the drunken and the mendicants 70 per cent. were drunkards; of the assassins and murderers 50 and 55; of robbers, 71; of those convicted of crimes against the person 65 per cent., and of those guilty of attacks on property 77 per cent. were also drunkards. Of 100 criminal months under 20 61 were already drunkards. Drunkenness has greatly increased in France since the consumption of spirits has supplanted that of wine.

Gen. Clinton E. Pick.

Gen. Pick enjoys a national reputation as a soldier, a financier, a leading Methodist layman, and a political sentimentalist.
He was born in York, England, in 1825.

GEN. CLINTON E. PICK.

His early manhood was spent in Michigan, Ireland, and just removed to St. Louis at the outbreak of the war. He was a member of the service in support of the Union, he rapidly earned distinction in the field. As brevet major general he was with Grant at the capture of Vicksburg. In 1864 he took a prominent part in the freedom's bureau, having 2,500,000 colored people under his charge. In 1895 he established the school at Nashville, Tenn., from which has since grown the celebrated this university. The Pick Public School, attached to this college, and renowned in Europe and America, will enroll the New Jersey campaign. In 1874 Gen.
Pick, who had in a high degree the confidence of Gen. Grant, was appointed by him chairman of the newly organized Indian commission. He occupies many positions of trust and responsibility in the Methodist Episcopal church, to which he has given freely of his time and means.
In politics he was a Republican until 1881, when he attached himself to the Prohibition party.
